

What the Society Offers

The William Morris Society has a worldwide membership and offers the opportunity, together with fellow Morrisians, to perpetuate the memory of one of the greatest men of the Victorian age. Regular events include a wide range of talks, an annual Kelmscott lecture, William Morris's birthday party, an active education programme and visits to exhibitions and to places such as Red House, Kelmscott Manor, Standen and Wightwick Manor. The Society also encourages the work of local, regional and national groups. The Society's Magazine reports on Society events, events organised by other organisations, new publications and other matters of interest to members. The Journal of William Morris Studies, published biannually, includes scholarly articles across the field of Morris studies and reviews of publications relevant to Morris. Also available are copies of the newsletter from the William Morris Society in the United States.
